On mini-buses

Officials to study plan for city transportation

BY DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Two Romulus officials will explore the feasibility of luring a mini-bus transportation program to Romulus.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt has assigned the director of industrial development and planning, John Chichan, and Romulus Councilman Jack Trumble to the task.

Troutt decided to further study the practicality of beginning such a system after State Rep. Edward E.

'We're going to explore all the good and bad things about the mini-bus first...'

Mahalak (D-38th) called a meeting last week with officials of several Western Wayne County communities, to suggest joining together on a dial-a-ride bus system.

MAHALAK'S PROPOSAL was to instigate a program similar to a dial-a-ride system in Ann Arbor, which has proven successful. His long-range plan, is to have the mini-buses connect with an express bus line in Detroit.

For the more immediate future, however, Mahalak is seeking a commitment from local short-way bus lines to extend their services into Romulus, Huron Township, Van Buren and Sumpter townships and Belleville, to transport those people into the major shopping areas in Westland, Southgate, Allen Park and Dearborn.

Or, perhaps even more likely was Mahalak's proposal to begin a system of mini-buses within each community, which would connect into the larger bus lines going to shopping areas and downtown Detroit.

That is the program that interests Romulus officials, particularly.

"FROM WHAT I'VE seen, it would be worthwhile," Troutt said. "We aren't really suited for dial-a-ride here because of the population size, so we think a regular bus route of four mini-buses would be best for here. In the dial-a-ride program, persons call the bus line when they need a ride, then are picked up at their homes. Romulus' population, however, isn't big enough to support such a system.

"We're going to explore all the good and bad things about the mini-bus first, though."

The proposal, would have four mini-buses working solely within Romulus, at strategic points throughout the city, Troutt said. For instance, one may operate a circuit from Wayne Road to Hannan Road, Pennsylvania and Van Born.

Another could service the north side of town, one could work the airport route and still another could handle the eastern section.

"THEY COULD swing right through the subdivisions and have stops on a regular schedule," Troutt said. The mini-buses would then deposit their passengers at regular bus line stops which, in turn, would transport the people to shopping areas.

Costs still are hazy on the program, but Troutt and Mahalak said they anticipate perhaps a 25-cent fare on the mini-buses.

Officials of the State Highway Department and the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) met with the community leaders last week and offered proposals for the mini-bus programs.

According to Troutt, SEMTA would pay for the mini-buses and give them to Romulus as per a 2-year contract. After two years, Romulus would begin absorbing some of the operating costs of the buses.

"WE WOULD TRY to run it as cheaply as we could and have cheap fares," he said. "The buses also could be used by the city, since we would own them, for instance to provide transportation for senior citizens and recreation department needs."

Whatever the program, a concrete proposal must be submitted to the state by Oct 1 to be eligible to be worked into the 1975-76 fiscal year budget. The system, if found worthwhile by Romulus, could begin by next July 1.

Mahalak said Romulus showed the most interest in forming a transportation program at the meeting, but Huron Township Supervisor George W. Moore said he also is very interested in beginning a similar program in that community.

"The people here just don't have any way of getting around," he added. TROUTT SAID that if enough communities decided to participate in a transportation system—with each providing its own mini-buses, a freeway express line could be joined, which they could feed into.

"If we get enough communities, perhaps a major bus line like Greyhound that travels from Ann Arbor to Detroit could exit at various ramps on I-94 to pick up people on a set schedule," he said. "It could make one or two exits at Romulus—not going into the city but just pulling off at the ramps."

"That means you could get on a bus here and directly connect with an express bus to Detroit. In less than one hour you could be downtown."

But for the meanwhile, Romulus will focus its efforts on the mini-bus system feeding into the area's shopping centers, likely on a five- or six-day per week basis. TROUTT NOTED that the city has had bus service in the past, but charged that the buses were "too crowded and took too long to get around."

"The main thing people want is speed," he said. "They want to get there and back in a reasonable length of time and this mini-bus system could be the answer."

Judge to decide case for airport expansion

An injunction suit brought by three Romulus parties against a proposed runway expansion program at Detroit Metropolitan Airport will realize its success—or defeat—tomorrow.

U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt has instructed the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC), which operates the airport, that it must show adequate cause for wanting to expand the runway if it hopes to avert a court-ordered delay in construction.

Pratt will then either clamp on a restraining order on the construction or kill the request.

California attorney Jerrold A. Fadern, representing the City of Romulus, Romulus Community Schools Board of Education and homeowner Fouad Berry, Monday filed with Pratt a request for the restraining order.

However, the WCRC received a delay in the injunction hearing proceedings when it elected to hire additional legal counsel, and the hearing was rescheduled for 2 p.m. tomorrow in the federal court in Detroit.

The Romulus case centers around its contention that expansion of the airport greatly will harm the lifestyles of nearby homeowners and further increase learning difficulties in district schools caused by low-flying aircraft.

Evidence presented by Fadern included documents from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Department of Transportation and Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), charging that an important Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) filed by the WCRC is inadequate and inaccurate.

mart's opening day, which was termed "very successful" by its organizers. In the background is a snack bar sponsored by the Romulus Flyers hockey team.—Romulus Roman photo.

Romulus Community Mart seen as rousing success by planners

BY DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Judging by the reactions of its organizers, merchants and customers, the new Romulus Community Mart could be termed a rousing success.

"Everybody's excited and thrilled," said Beverly McAnally, mart chairman, during the height of the day on Saturday. "There's been a continual coming and going of customers since 7:30 a.m."

The mart began at 7:30 a.m. and continued until mid-afternoon at the city hall-library complex parking lot. Twelve booth permits were sold to Romulus merchants wishing to display and market their product, handicrafts and even several puppies, kittens and baby ducks.

AND THE mart's first day was so well attended that at least two merchants were "sold out" of their wares before the morning was over. "We could have used lots more produce, but people said that produce is just not in yet," Mrs. McAnally said. "I'm just so tickled that some of them sold out and that it's been a success."

She added that there is plenty of room for more booths at future marts, which will run each Saturday until Sept. 31. Booth permits cost $3 for residents and $7 for non-residents, and are available at the city clerk's office.

Judging from customer reaction, the mart should prove to be a rousing success in its ensuing Saturdays, she said.

"I'VE HEARD people say this is just what Romulus has needed for a long time," Mrs.

McAnally added. "The crowd has just been fantastic and all the community is delighted."

Particularly delighted were the produce merchants who sold their entire stocks. Irvin Icenogle and Jack Trumble—several craftsmen who made some "good hauls" in the first day.

Judy Sullivan and Diane Knight, for instance, sold about $50 worth of hand-made ceramics in less than five hours, they said.

"For the first day, this has been very successful," analyzed the Romulus neighbors, who make their ceramic items as a hobby.

THEY SAID THEY'D like to come back next week, but wouldn't have enough time to make more of their wares by then.

"We'll be back in two weeks," they promised. Salene Jager and Suzanne Choate, also of Romulus, said they definitely would return this Saturday since their sales of yarn crafts were so successful.

Particularly pleasing sales-wise was the public's response

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS—Ida Stephenson, who will be 100-year-old Monday, reads a letter of congratulations from Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt. A Romulus

resident for 20 years, Mrs. Stephenson will celebrate her 100th birthday Sunday at a family reunion near Jackson.—Romulus Roman photo.

It'll be special day for area woman

Countless thousands will celebrate birthdays next Monday, but few can claim the distinction of Ida Stephenson of Romulus.

She has a real chore in store for her when she rears back to blow out the candles on her birthday cake—all 100 of them.

Mrs. Stephenson, who lives at 37053 Porter with her son and daughter-in-law, will celebrate eclipsing the century mark at a family reunion Sunday at Wampers Lake near Jackson, the day before her birthday, with her son James, 74, five grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren. Between 50 and 75 relatives and spouses are expected to attend, many of whom live in her home state of Ohio.

MRS. STEPHENSON has lived at her son's home since 1955, moving from her birthplace of Stryker, Ohio, after her husband died.

She was born in the post-Civil War era—July 29, 1874—and lived through three wars while reading about some fellows named Edison, Ford and Wright experimenting with new-fangled gadgets called a light bulb, automobile and airplane.

Today, all three of those inventions play a major part in society's functioning.

"A picture of health, Mrs. Stephenson has only a hearing handicap and a touch of arthritis, possibly due to her no-smoking and no-drinking convictions "and being a Christian lady all her life," says her daughter-in-law.

AS THE MONTHS leading to the big date have turned into days, Mrs. Stephenson has received numerous good luck wishes and greetings from many, and last week read a letter of congratulations from Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt and the city council. But as the momentous day approaches and the excitement mounts, Mrs. Stephenson still doesn't bat an eyelash at all the fuss being made over her.

"No, she's just taking it in stride," said the younger Mrs. Stephenson. "Grandma never gets excited about anything."

After all, it's only her 100th birthday.

Commission to get bill for lighting of streets

The Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) will receive one extra electrical bill this month, and it won't be from Detroit Edison Co. Romulus Mayor Terry L.

Troutt has mailed a "bill" to WCRC Chairman Michael Berry for $13,702.50 in funds paid by Romulus for the operation of 30 street lights on Merriman Road at I-94 since Feb. 1, 1972.

According to Troutt, the lights "in no way serve the City of Romulus" and "are of no benefit to the city."

HE CLAIMED in an accompanying letter to Berry that Romulus had nothing to do with the light installation program when it was proposed in 1972 and unlawfully was billed for electricity used by the lights.

The lighting units provide a lighted access to Detroit Metropolitan Airport and in no way serve Romulus, Troutt said. In essence, the lights are on an entrance-exit of the airport.

"At the time the interchange at Merriman Road and I-94, including the exit ramps, was constructed, the State Highway Department requested the Detroit Edison Co. to install steel-poled street lighting at this intersection," Troutt's letter read.

"The City of Romulus had nothing to do with the proposed lighting program at that intersection."

In Sumpter Township

10 candidates file for 3 offices

Ten candidates have filed for three offices in Sumpter Township.

Leading off the list are three candidates for township supervisor. Incumbent Robert Marble will face Elmer Parraghi and Richard Krajewski in the primary election.

James Brown will be running against Jack Shropshire for the clerk's post with Marlow Fowler, Harvey S. Moore, Cecelia Chudzinski, Cecil Hall, Jerry Jennings and Leonard Dombek vying for trustee positions.

A former Democratic member of the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees and a former Democratic township supervisor are competing to unseat the incumbent supervisor, a democrat, in the Aug. 6 primary election.

Incumbent Township Supervisor Robert D. Marble of 46685 Kozma Rd. is seeking re-election to another two years.

He is being opposed by two members of his party Richard Krajewski, 45, a former trustee; and Elmer Parraghi of 39701 Willis Rd., a former supervisor. Both Krajewski and Parraghi were two of four township officials who were recalled in 1972.

Krajewski, who lives at 40233 Harris Rd. has been a community resident for 11 years. He and his wife, Helen, are the parents of four children. He attended Belleville High School, Wayne Memorial High School and Henry Ford Community College.

Krajewski, who is employed as a supervisor at the Livonia plant of the Ford Motor Co., served as township trustee, chairman of Sumpter Township Water and Sewer Commission, and is present chairman of the Human Resources Committee.

He is a member of the Plymouth Rock Lodge 47 F & AM, Polish National Alliance Lodge 2894 and the Polish Legion of American Veterans No. 167.

In commenting on his candidacy, Krajewski said: "I am seeking election again because many people have asked me to seek the office of supervisor. They feel that I could deal with the many problems and resolve them."

A candidate for township clerk, James Brown, a Democrat who resides at 23233 Karr Rd., is a 5-year community resident. He and his wife, Kay, are the parents of three children. He attended Eastern High School, Detroit Institute of Technology and Wayne State University. He is owner of the James Brown Insurance Agency and works for the Ford Motor Co.

Brown, who also was recalled in 1972, was first elected trustee in 1970. He presently is serving on the township planning commission. He has been active in the Sumpter Progressive Civic League.

In running for clerk, Brown, 38, said: "I was approached by many concerned citizens of the township asking me to run for clerk. People who felt that the office of clerk was not being filled as it should be. They felt that with my qualifications, I might be able to help restore communications between the township hall and the people."

Competing with Brown for the clerkship is Democratic Jack L. Shropshire Jr., 22, of 25701 Martinsville Rd., a community resident for 20 years.

In seeking election, Shropshire said he is "tired of seeing people pushed around and promised a lot of things that never happened. 'If elected I will communicate with the people and let them know what's going on,' he said.

A field of six is seeking for two-year trustee posts. Democratic incumbents Marlow D. Fowler, 35, of 49683 Collyer Court; and Harvey S. Moore of 42795 Wear Rd. are seeking re-election.

They will be opposed by Cecelia C. Chudzinski of 48654 Willis Rd., Cecil Hall of 29066 Haggerty Rd., Jerry P. Jennings of 20749 Martinsville Rd. Sumpter Township Water Commissioner Clarence C.

Russell of 45233 Wear Rd. has withdrawn from the trustee race.

Fowler has resided in the community for 30 years. He and his wife, Laura Ann, are the parents of four children.

He was elected trustee in 1972 to serve a 2-year term.

In seeking re-election, Fowler said: "My two years experience as trustee of Sumpter Township and as a resident of the township for so many years, gives me an intimate knowledge of the wants and needs of the community."

Republican Leonard Dombek, 49, of 29401 Martinsville Rd. is unopposed for his party's nod for one of the trustee posts.

He has been a community resident for 35 years. He and his wife, Alberta, are the parents of two children. He attended Carleton High School and carpenter apprentice school.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION — The wall damage displayed was recently found by local police and federal agents in a federally-subsidized home located in Van Buren Estates Subdivision in Van Buren Township. The malicious destruction of property was in a vacant home at 41812

McBride St., repossessed by HUD. It soon will be renovated, according to township officials. HUD has retained private general contractors to renovate this home and other so damaged in the subdivision. — Enterprise-Roman photo.

Cafes, booths, bands will be part of sale

Sidewalk cafes, produce booths, live bands and hundreds of various knick-knacks will all be part of the annual Belleville Area Sidewalk Sale starting Aug. 2 on Main Street.

"Past 'flea markets' in the area have been 'very colorful and successful,'" said Ben R. Robertson, president of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

"This year we would like to encourage businessmen who are not located in the downtown Main Street area to set up a booth or table in this area with the flea market," Robertson said. "Some space still is available."

Farmers, industrial firms, insurance companies and other businesses are encouraged to call 697-7151 for information, and the public is invited to attend and spend the day enjoying the market, he added.

The annual event will start Aug. 2, lasting from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. and conclude Aug. 3, with booths open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Dem Club holds meet

Members of the Van Buren-Belleville Democratic Club met in regular session yesterday in the VFW Hall on Bemis Rd. between Sumpter and Martinsville.

The meeting focused on the subject of endorsing candidates.

St. Patrick's to hold fest

The annual parish festival and chicken dinner sponsored by St. Patrick's Catholic Church of Carleton will be held from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday on the parish grounds.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church is located at Exeter and Labo roads.

Family style dinner will be served in the parish hall. Dinner tickets will be $3 for adults, $2 for children 12 to six and $1 for children five and under.

Judge to decide expansion

The EIS outlines the projected environmental impact or effects of the runway expansion for future years. However, the EPA charged that noise measurements listed by the airport were projections based on the year 1980 and not the present.

"IT (THE impact statement) is inadequate to support the decision to expand the airport," declared Fadem in his case to the court.

In addition, the threatened expansion is in violation of the zoning laws of Romulus, he said. "A major portion of the expansion is on land zoned heavy industrial," he said. "Airports are not a permitted use in Romulus heavy industrial zones."

He also charged that Wayne County has not applied for or received grading or building permits for the runway construction.

"Instead, the county threatens to proceed out-of-fashion and simply construct its new facilities while thumbing its nose at the municipality in which it resides," he said.

FADEM CONTINUED: "Romulus owns easements in the threatened expansion area, within which are located water mains serving the residents of Romulus. The county's expansion will not merely trespass upon those easements, it will bury them under 26 inches of concrete, making it impossible to repair or service these vital public works.

"Furthermore, Romulus and the school board seek damages from the county for each of the following reasons: One, schools are diminished in value. Two, public works are taken and rendered useless without compensation. And three, private property is taken for public use."

HUD contended that the impact statement filed by the airport is not accepted "as an acceptable method for the evaluation of noise and environmental impacts in the vicinity of the airport.

The department of transportation similarly agreed.

THE EPA DOES not have the power to halt the runway construction but the dept. of transportation and HUD carry considerable more weight with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), which governs all airports.

The WCRC newly-retained legal counsel, E. Barrett Prettyman, of Washington D.C., could not be reached for comment. In addition, WCRC officials denied comment on the issue.

children aged eight to 11 years old, was presented to the school board by Smith, who told the board that the Romulus Recreation Commission, pending board of education's endorsement, "seems willing to commit funds to the project."

SMITH SAID the initial cost projections of $2,608 for operation and personnel would be shared on a 56-50 basis between the board of education and the recreation commission. Program registration fee would be $5.

On July 10, a session to suggest areas of cooperative planning was held with the recreation commission.

Smith said: One of the areas concerned the possibility of a cooperative program entitled "Super Saturday."

He added that other community education programs have had success with Saturday activities.

Factors which make the design of this program attractive include: preregistration, supervision, enrichment and economy, the school board was told.

SMITH EXPLAINED that "if interest isn't sufficient, the program isn't held and costs are not incurred to support an effective activity."

Romulus Community Education will provide instruction, supervision "thereby facilitating instruction, maintenance, transportation and building use organization," Smith said.

He added that many of the suggested activities are linked to classrooms and career projects and as far as economy is concerned, "There is reason to believe various community agencies will become interested in 'Super Saturday.'"

The suggested format for the proposed 8-week program combines various enrichment learning programs with the initiation of career projects in a recreational atmosphere.

SCHOOL BOARD members expressed favorable comment on the proposal.

Fischer directs curriculum

The newly created position of director of instruction in the Romulus Community Schools system has been filled by Marvin Fischer.

The Romulus Board of Education appointed Fischer as director of instruction giving him the responsibility of district-wide planning, coordination and implementation of curriculum program in grades kindergarten through 12.

Fischer also will be responsible for state and federal programs.

The new director said that his first major goal will be to identify curriculum and instructional needs and establish priorities.

Fischer, who has experience in teaching and administration in elementary and secondary schools, began his career in the Centerline School District.

Prior to coming to Romulus, he spent seven years as a teacher and an administrator with Fitzgerald Public School in Warren. He spent two years in England teaching in an elementary school, and one year as an elementary and junior high assistant principal in Turkey.

billed and paid, for a period of time, by the State Highway Department. However, some time ago, the billing was transferred to the City of Romulus. The city continued to pay this bill for a number of years and the total bill, to date, amounts to more than $13,702.50," the letter continued.

"Detroit Edison had no authorization from the City of Romulus to transfer the cost of these lights," he said.

Trout enclosed a copy of the letter to Detroit Edison notifying it that the city has no interest in the lights and desires that they be removed or the billing be transferred elsewhere.

He said the city feels a refund is due since it has paid for the lights for nearly 2½ years, when he claimed they should have been paid for by the WCRC.

The mayor said he expects the city will receive the refund, but indicated it would take the matter to court if the money was not repaid.

Jerry Ford Up Close: Chapter 5

(Editor's note: From the Appropriations Committee, to Republican caucus chairman, to the Warren Commission, to minority leader of the House. This fifth chapter of "Jerry Ford, Up Close" outlines his rise to power).

Jerry Ford went to Washington to stay. He took an empty briefcase; he had no pet bill or bold legislative program and no illusions. Mere survival in office would be accomplishment enough the first few years.

He took a smart office manager, a Grand Rapids man, of course, but one with special qualifications. John Milanowski, then 32 and recently graduated from the Catholic University Law School in Washington, was casting about for a place to begin practice. He agreed to run Jerry's office and be his alter ego for a few years.

FORD WAS ASSIGNED Jonkman's former office, Room 321 in the old House office building. In his first term Ford and Milanowski saw that being Speaker of the House was the best job in town, outside the White House, and one path to it ran through the House Appropriations Committee, where all budget bills must start.

"We talked about how nice it would be for Jerry to be Speaker someday," Milanowski recalled. "That's where all the patronage was, the power."

Jerry went on appropriations after serving his maiden term and then got a lucky break. George Mahon, Armed Forces Subcommittee chairman, asked Ford and Milanowski to do an analysis of the Army Corps of Engineers budget request. The subcommittee liked the resulting report.

Soon Ford came to be regarded as knowledgeable in defense-budget writing, and then the House expert on defense budgets. Thus it was that with the advent of the Republican administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower and a Republican House in 1953, Ford became important in many circles while only a 3-term Congressman.

HE DID NOT NEGLECT the folks back home. As a member of appropriations, Ford's name was known throughout the maze of federal bureaucracy and in most agencies he had a friend who could provide quick answers to questions or problems.

Callie Goebel, who served on the Civil Defense Advisory Council under three Presidents thanks to Ford, described it very simply in later years: "Many people never realized it, but in Washington Jerry Ford could open any door to help you, and he would."

One thing Ford did not do, even when he had power and opportunity for it, was grab big goblets from the federal pork barrel for his own district. In 1973 a new federal office building opened in Grand Rapids, but even Democrats acknowledged it was time for a modern structure to replace "the old post office."

In 1952 Ford had to make a decision. Arthur Summerfield, then the Michigan GOP powerhouse and chief fund raiser, asked him to run for U. S. Senate.

As we see it

'The Number' offers much to community

"The Number" offers much to the community, the volunteer counselors and the people who seek aid from the Belleville-area crisis counseling center.

The project has been very successful as people attempt to help other people and at the same time better themselves.

The self-betterment comes in when you consider the time volunteers spend training and retaining to be effective counselors.

THE COUNSELORS also are given extensive knowledge from experts on handling such crisis problems as drugs, alcohol and venereal disease.

Aside from bettering themselves through the training process, self-better and self-satisfaction must be achieved in knowing their understanding ear and qualified counseling helps another community member through a crisis period in his or her life.

And we agree with Kathy Calvillo, the center's director when she said: "The Number' allows the community of Belleville to take the time to listen to the needs of its members in an effort to improve life in the entire community."

"The Number" must be considered a success story for the community as a whole. It is successful not only because it is reaching more people each day who have a problem, but also because it allows other community members with a little spare time to spend that time constructively.

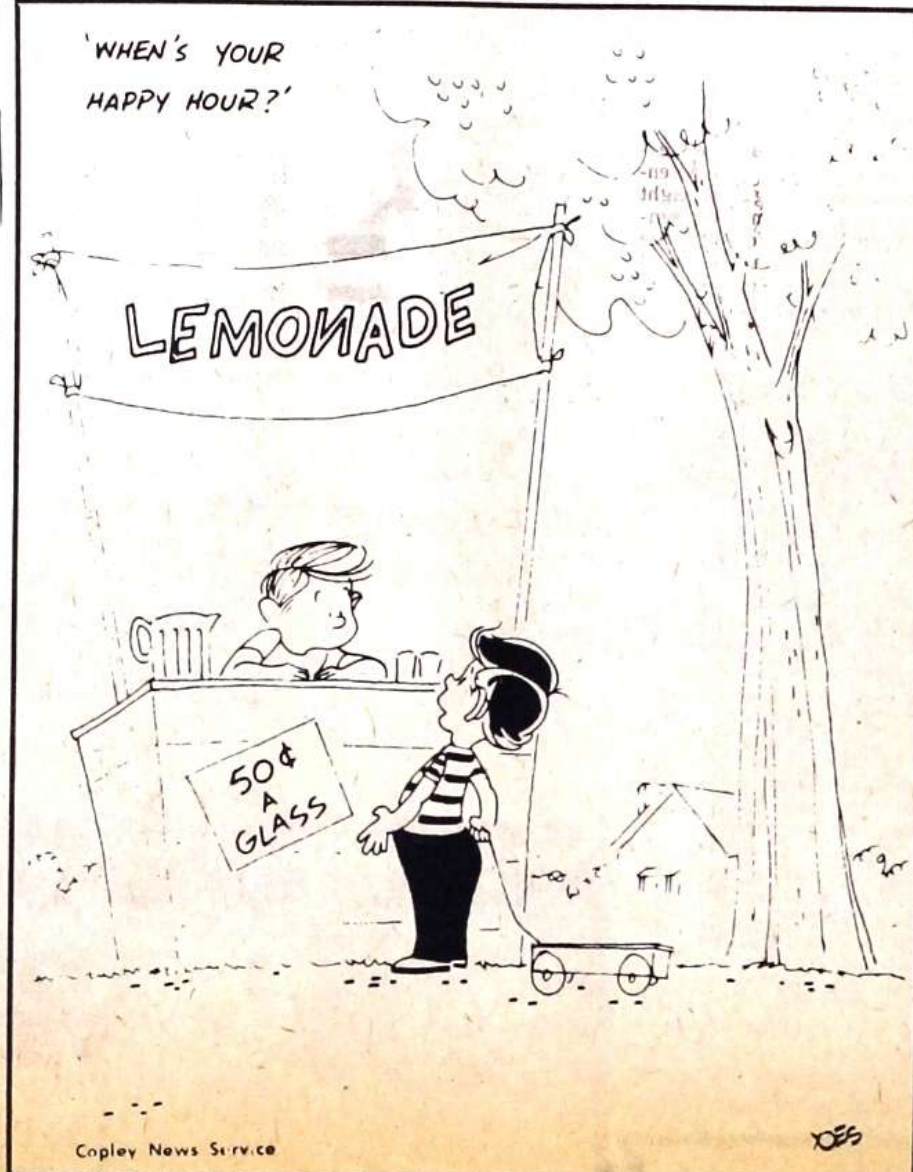

WE NEED "THE Number" and we should be proud of its volunteer counselors.

They are ordinary men and women, maybe even your neighbor, who want to help others.

They are men and women who care enough about their fellow man to dedicate some of their spare time to be trained as counselors and to man phones to help others.

To these volunteers and their director, we say:

"Thanks for caring...Thanks for being there if we need you."

Gray pinpoints reasons

Traffic death statistics drop

Traffic deaths are off dramatically in Michigan this year and much of the credit has gone to the lowered speed limit.

But statistics gathered by the Michigan State Police over the years indicate the big factor may have been the rise in unemployment and the weakening of the state's economy in late 1973 and the first part of this year.

As of July 1, with half the year gone, 745 traffic deaths had been reported in Michigan, a drop of 321 from the same period a year earlier.

L.T. ZANE GRAY, who is in charge of the enforcement section of the traffic and safety division, has statistics indicating the economy played a much bigger role in cutting traffic deaths than the speed limit of 55.

For one thing, June marked the 11th straight month that highway deaths were below the month for the earlier year, yet the new speed limit didn't go into effect until this March, he said. The drop started when the economy softened with the energy crisis.

His most striking proof, however, is a graph contrasting the rise and fall in unemployment in Michigan with the rise and fall in traffic deaths. With two exceptions, both of which he said are explainable, in years where unemployment rose, traffic deaths went down. When unemployment was down and the economy strong, traffic deaths rose.

The graph covers 1953 through 1973 — a 21-year span.

When employment is less secure, people drive slower

THE TWO EXCEPTIONS to the rule were 1957 and 1973; both years in which the state's employment picture for the entire year was better than the previous year, but in which traffic deaths dropped.

"In 1957, the state had all sorts of safety programs, the middle of a downward trend which started in 1955 and went through 1958," he added. "During that time the statewide speed limit went into effect; the point system went in; drivers education became a reality; the traffic safety center started up; freeways started to open, and padded dashes and visors and recessed steering wheels along with other engineering changes went into effect."

"In 1955 the state had more than 2,000 deaths but in 1958 the state was down to 1,400 deaths."

"As far as 1973 is concerned, it didn't fall behind the previous year until November and December. And by that time, even though the statistics for the whole year showed a rise in employment from the previous year, the economy was in worse shape."

"Employment changes seem to affect the attitude of the public. When employment is less secure, people drive slower, more carefully, more conservatively. They don't feel they can afford a speeding ticket. And now the price of gasoline has gone up sharply."

GRAY DOESN'T MEAN to suggest the economy is the only reason and that such changes as seat belt interlock systems which have spurred seat belt use and other safety programs aren't worth anything.

But he doesn't think the lower speed limit has much to do with it.

"When you look over the portion of accidents that speed limits directly affect, on interstates and primary roads, you find a surprisingly small percentage of accidents affected," he said. "Freeways have had the lowest percentage of reduction of fatal accidents of any highways. Through April, fatal accidents were down 24.5 per cent from the 72-73 average, whereas the state total was down 31 per cent."

"And there was a bigger drop in January and February, before the new limits went into effect, than in March and April."

THE STATISTICS do indicate a cutdown in travel. Where fatal accidents involving drivers who are local people are down 24.5 per cent, the fatal accidents involving drivers from another county are down 46.2 per cent.

One other quirk which no one is sure of the cause, fatal accidents involving women drivers are down 45 per cent, whereas those involving men are down 24.5 per cent.

There is one other constant — drinking drivers still are involved in more than 50 per cent of the fatal accidents. And quite often, the speeding driver involved in a fatal wreck is a drinking driver, Gray said.

"The most common violation for drinking drivers is speeding," he added. "If you see someone going at a high rate of speed at night, it's usually a drinker. It's the same with an unusually slow rate of speed. You get an extreme one way or the other."

GRAY SAID that throughout changes in the death rate and the economy, the rate per hundred million miles driven in the state is less than one-fourth what it was in 1935, the highest year on record.

In that year the rate was 16.8 deaths per 100 million miles driven. Last year it was 3.78 per 100 million miles. If the 1935 rate still were the rate, more than 9,000 would have died in traffic accidents last year.

He also thinks if the speed limit still were 65 and 70, the drop in traffic deaths would be about the same.

Hart won't let Watergate scandal influence decision to seek election

Enterprise - Roman Washington Bureau

In considering whether to seek reelection, Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) intends to avoid being influenced one way or the other by the reaction of Michigan voters to the Watergate affair.

The senator made this comment recently in a conversation with newsmen who had pressed him about his future plans.

Hart does not have to face the electorate again until 1976, and it generally is assumed he will make the race to keep his senate seat.

By that bicentennial year — whether President Nixon is winding up his term in the White House or not — the whole Watergate scandal should be on the verge of fading into history.

Hart was one of the first public figures to suggest that Watergate could lead to the impeachment of Nixon. The senator said that at a time when the very word "impeachment" sent shivers through many Americans.

The public has grown more accustomed to the idea now. There is even one theory that the public, used to being treated to great spectacles on TV, is looking forward to televised coverage of Senate proceedings relating to impeachment charges the House might vote against the President.

Since his original comments about impeachment, Hart generally has steered clear of discussing the subject publicly.

Along with many other senators he believes the best contribution he can make now is to keep silent since senators face the prospect of sitting as a jury in the case. Any other posture would bring criticism down on his head.

The reporters asked Hart how he read the mood of the Michigan electorate toward Watergate at this moment. He said Michigan residents seemed to regard the matter in one of the following three ways:

"There is one group which takes the position that you guys (Democrats) lost the election in 1972 and now are trying to steal it from Nixon."

"Another group suggests that Congress has known for a year that something was amiss with Nixon so why don't you get rid of him."

"Finally, there are those who believe even if Nixon sought to cover up Watergate, this whole story is distracting everyone and doing so much harm to the country that maybe it would be better if the whole thing was kicked under the rug."

Turning to his own future, Hart said Watergate "has not and would not" influence the decision he ultimately will make on whether to run again for the Senate.

It generally has been assumed that Watergate will have a negative impact on all incumbents running for reelection this fall with Republican candidates faced with a particularly heavy burden.

THE DEATH OF Sen. Vandenberg had come with Democrat "Soapy" Williams in the governor's chair. Williams appointed the Washington correspondent of the Detroit News, Blair Moody, to serve out Vandenberg's term. Michigan Republicans wanted a champion to get the Vandenberg seat back.

Milanowski counseled Ford not to switch chambers of Congress. He pointed out Ford was rising in seniority, was likely to become top-ranking Republican on appropriations and from there would have an excellent shot at the speakership when the time was ripe. Ford diagnosed it the same way and decided against a senatorial bid.

This caused woe back home in Michigan. The party won with Charles E. Potter, a Cheboygan welfare official, but he was a weak incumbent and in 1958 Democrat Phil Hart took the seat and kept it.

In the mid-1950s Ford had two more opportunities to run for higher office, with offers to subsidize his campaign expenses. He turned down both, and neither offer, Ford said, was ever "generally known." The first was under most peculiar circumstances.

A DELEGATION OF very conservative Republicans came to him in 1954, and offered "unlimited campaign funds" if he would run against Republican U. S. Sen. Homer Ferguson in the primary, Ford said.

In the first Eisenhower administration Ferguson had become a strong supporter of the President's budgets, but he was not conservative enough for the Republican Old Guard. In loyalty to the administration he had cast a key vote against the "Bricker Amendment"—a measure Eisenhower interpreted as limiting his ability to conduct foreign affairs.

But he heard two "stories" explaining why the right-wing Republicans asked him to run in the primary, Ford said. Ferguson's vote on the Bricker Amendment was the first.

The other story, Ford said, was this: "In 1945 Homer had been a member of the Truman investigating committee, and he had been quite critical of Howard Hughes (over war contracts) along with Senator Ralph O. Brewster of Maine and I guess some others. And Howard Hughes never forgave either Brewster or Ferguson. The story was that the people who came to see me allegedly had been urged to do so by some of Howard Hughes' friends. That was the second story."

THE NEXT OFFER, came in 1956 Ford said. President John A. Hannah of Michigan State University approached Ford to offer his services in raising campaign funds if Ford would run for governor against G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams.

Ford was doubly wise, saying no. The men who ran against Williams now are all but forgotten except among Republican old-timers.

Looking back, 1955 to 1965 were the bluebird years for Jerry and Betty Ford in Washington. The family rounded out. Steve and Susan were born, joining Mike and John; their home in Alexandria was purchased and a swimming pool built.

Jerry perfected his people-pleasing machine. Not a sparrow should fall in the fifth district without Ford's office hearing of it and trying to do something to help.

FORD'S FIRST MODEST taste of formal leadership came in 1963.

Young Republicans and those like Jerry who were outside the Old Guard power structure had been disappointed many times.

Eisenhower had been elected twice but could not sweep a Republican Congress into office with him. What power Republican House members did have was concentrated in a few hands, most of them Old Guard.

And the election of John F. Kennedy in 1960 presaged more dry years. The off-year congressional election results in 1962 were none too satisfactory. As the new Congress convened in 1963, Republicans began to mutter about revolt against their leadership.

FORD TALKED WITH his career consultants, Bob Griffin of Michigan and Charlie Goodell of New York. A revolt plan was cooked up, but private polling indicated it would fail. So they supported Charlie Halleck to continue in his post of Minority Leader and ran Jerry against Charles Hoveen of Iowa, the Republican Conference (caucus) chairman. Ford won.

In 1964, between winning his first party leadership post and becoming House Minority Leader, came an interlude of unusual service and a saddening experience.

In November 1963 President John F. Kennedy was assassinated by Lee Harvey Oswald. The following month Lyndon Johnson, as the new President, appointed the Warren Commission of seven, including Ford, to investigate and report definitely on how the assassination was accomplished.

President Johnson, who would have to seek election in his own right in 1964, wanted doubts and the whispers about the assassination quieted before the election. His appointees, led by Chief Justice Earl Warren, had impeccable reputations: Warren, Ford, Senators Richard B. Russell and John Sherman Cooper, Representative Hale Boggs, Allen Dulles, former director of the CIA, and veteran diplomat John J. McCloy.

IN SEPTEMBER 1964 the seven commission members were satisfied that they had reached, unanimously, the only logical conclusion: That Oswald alone had planned and executed the assassination.

The inaugural of Democratic President Lyndon Johnson in January 1965, was a 4-day Texas-size bash.

Johnson had won the biggest landslide victory since 1936, a mandate to keep the peace and prosperity flowing. Many Republicans joined the partying. They had feared Barry Goldwater would lead them to defeat; he led them to debacle, and Republicans who survived the landslide considered themselves fortunate.

Jerry Ford didn't waste any more time partying than he had to. He had come home to town the first of January with a plan for revolt.

THE REPUBLICAN representatives who survived the Democratic landslide faced a bleak two years with fewer troops and less power. They had lost 38 seats. The minority-party mentality might be all right for Minority Leader Charlie Halleck, but not for a soldier in the ranks who had hope for power and prestige.

Halleck, 36 years old, hadn't gotten the message when Ford replaced Hoveen as conference chairman, even when Hoveen himself noted that: "This should serve as notice to Les Arends (party whip) and Charlie Halleck that something is brewing."

Right after the election Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri had written a letter to all House Republicans suggesting that they get together for a conference. This letter was seized upon by Ford and company as a trigger for their own move.

On the surface Halleck appeared to take over, but the evening of Dec. 6 Goodell gave a cocktail party in his office for 16 red-hot, including Ford's good friend and contemporary, Elford A. Cederberg of Bay City, Mich. The talk ran late into the night, and it was decided Ford would be the strongest candidate against Halleck.

GRiffin PUT together a team of 30 determined rebels to organize the coup.

"It will be close, but you will win," Griffin and Goodell reported to Ford after a final nose count. When the ballots were counted, Ford had 73 votes, Halleck 67.

Ford was, with Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, top-ranking Republican in government—a potential speaker, if his party could ever win control of Congress.

To that end Ford went to work immediately. The concept of thinking out, articulating and offering "positive Republican alternative programs" to the big-spending Democratic programs was prepared for action. It was a first in GOP congressional history.

ANOTHER PIECE of cake was that the President was a Democrat. The administration programs would be liberal and expensive. They would be anathema to many Southern Democratic mossbacks. To get his major programs through the House, Johnson would have to ask Republican help.

Johnson didn't wait long to launch his war on poverty, just as he did not wait long to launch his war in Vietnam.

When the program's dollar signs appeared in printed bills before Congress, Jerry recoiled in horror, too. But the needs of the core cities were so great, the "Republican alternatives" such pale gruel that the war on poverty was an unstoppable idea.

Nevertheless, Ford was entirely free to criticize presidential programs, and he did. Neither domestic social programs nor Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war escaped his wrath, although he was, and remained to the end, more hawk than Johnson on the war issue.

FORD'S ATTACKS enraged Johnson, driving him into uttering one remark that did much to solidify the view in Washington that Ford was none too bright.

"Jerry Ford is a nice guy, but he played too much football with his helmet off," Johnson told newsmen one day in exasperation at the GOP opposition in the House.

As Republican leader, Ford found it to his advantage to work with Southern Democrats on many occasions. He didn't hesitate to collaborate with them, or to oppose them, when it was to the GOP's advantage.

2 ex-Van Buren officials join treasurer's race

Vying for the post of Van Buren Township treasurer in the Aug. 6 primary election are two Republicans, including the incumbent office holder, and two Democrats, who formerly worked in township government.

Seeking re-election on the Republican ticket is incumbent Ralph E. Hedman, 43. He is being opposed by Kenneth Ray Barks, 26, a newcomer in the race.

The Democratic candidates are Edward C. O'Brien, 68, former township law enforcement officer and unsuccessful 1964 candidate for the treasurer's job, and Dorothy J. York, 46, who is making her second election bid for the post. She is a former township deputy treasurer.

HEDMAN, WHO LIVES at 10000 Jackson St., Van Buren Township, has been a resident of the community for the last three years. Hedman and his wife, Carol are the parents of eight children. He has attended high school, Ruth Dorsey Business School and the Pontiac Business Institute. He was first elected treasurer in 1972.

He is active in the Disabled American Veterans (DAV), American Legion, Belleville Kiwanis Club, Norwayne Council of Social Services and Wayne County Municipal Treasurers Association.

Hedman presently is aide-de-camp, executive committee member of the DAV and vice-president and current president of the Wayne County Municipal Treasurers Association. He also is service officer for the Wayne chapter of the DAV.

IN SEEKING RE-election, Hedman said: "I want to complete what I started two years ago which is to upgrade the tax records and serve the people of the township. My experience in accounting, training and background qualify me to another 2-year term."

Barks, who is Hedman's Republican opponent, is single. He lives at 13578 Lenmore Ave., Belleville. He has been a community resident for 16 years.

Barks attended Belleville High School, Washtenaw Community College, Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan, studying physics, calculus and computer programming.

Currently, Barks is employed by Morris Levine Associates, inspecting construction areas in the township.

BARKS, WHO SERVED as a precinct delegate in 1972, also is active in community volunteer services.

"In my heart I feel that it is every American's honor and obligation to seek and serve in local government whenever there is an opportunity or need," he said. "My interest lies in our township's future and I really care to represent you."

"The living and working experience I had within the township offices gave me a daily appreciation of the township's problems. I am not walking in cold. It is often understood in the society that no man should run for an office unless first he possesses a fortune.

"My fortunelies in that I am old enough to uphold and defend the wisdom of my elders and young enough to appreciate that youth builds from this wisdom their own ideals with vigor and integrity."

O'BRIEN, WHO presently is retired, has lived in the community 28 years. He and his wife, Ann, are the parents of three children. He attended St. Agnes High School and Northwestern High School, both in Detroit.

He is the treasurer of the Van Buren-Belleville Democratic Club and former law enforcement officer for the township from 1966 to 1974. He ran unsuccessfully for treasurer in 1964.

"I believe that the experience that I have encountered during my eight years of township employment and different people I have contacted and questions answered qualifies me for the position of township treasurer," O'Brien said.

Mrs. York, a Democrat, who is making her second bid for the post, has been a community resident for 23 years. She and her husband, Paul, reside at 47215 Ayres, Belleville. They have two children and five grandchildren.

SHE ATTENDED both Dearborn and Fordson High Schools and Monroe Community College for a course in the new state accounting system. She presently is employed by the Clyde Box Agency of Belleville.

Mrs. York served as deputy township treasurer from 1969 to 72 and chairman of the township's observance of Michigan Week. She is a life

Bahamas honeymoon follows ceremony

The newly wed Neil L. Johnsons left from Windsor Airport for an eight-day honeymoon in the Bahamas following their recent marriage at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. They are now making their home in Ypsilanti at 1111 S. Harris Rd. Deborah Yvonne Evanski became Mrs. Johnson in a spring ceremony at 12 noon conducted by The Rev. Raymond Skoney. Arrangements of white gladiolus and vari-colored daisies adorned the altar for the double ring rite. Music for the occasion included "The Wedding Song," "A Time for Us" and "Ave Maria" sung by Cynthia Palmer and Cynthia Hammond. Mrs. Glenn Miller was the organist.

Lorenz back from Europe

A FIVE WEEK vacation in Europe is now a pleasant memory which Bill and Lorraine Lorenz and two of their daughters, Lorrie and Chris, are sharing with their relatives and friends. The foursome returned to their Haggerty Road home after being met at Metro Airport by their oldest daughter, Cathy, and her fiancée, Steve Watson of Jackson. For the first three weeks of the trip, the Lorenzs were accompanied by Fred and Kay Lorenz of Romulus. Together they flew to Zurich, Switzerland and from there traveled by car through Austria — a visit which included a cruise on the Danube River to Vienna. Then it was on to Czechoslovakia and Poland where they spent 14 days seeing many historical sights and visiting four of Lorraine's uncles. A tour of Berlin was next on their itinerary along with a stop at Koln in West Germany, the sight of the men's mother's childhood. After the Fred Lorenz's departure, the remaining travelers spent time visiting castles along the Rhine River before continuing on to Belgium. Bill chalked up 4,200 miles on the continent before leaving for home soil.

Soaring temps prompt party

WITH THE temperatures soaring to sweltering heights over a recent week-end, "Dill" and Vickie Johnson of Romulus decided to call a few friends to share their new pool. Asking the dozen couples to "bring along whatever's in the 'fridge,'" the Johnsons provided hamburgers and hot dogs as well as the necessary cold beverages. Joining them for a poolside party were Don and Donna Herbst of Wayne; Rick and Sandi Knudsen and Pete and Inga Porsch of Dearborn; Jack and Ellen Schmidt, Pat and Linda McGuire and Dick and Jo Ann North of Dearborn Heights and Kurt and Lee Ann Wood of Taylor, all former classmates of the Johnsons; as well as relatives, George and Martha Johnson and Matt and Flo Hilden of Dearborn; Jim and Mickie Oldenburg of Ann Arbor; Sam and Nancy Nowak and Jack and Marti Ellenbach from Ypsilanti. Remembering that the Johnsons had a wedding anniversary coming up — their third — the group brought along a number of gag gifts for the occasion.

The corps of ushers included Daniel Evanski of Ypsilanti and Gregg Johnson of Belleville, brothers of the bride; James Akron and Dean Akron of Belleville, cousins of the bride; Steve Evanski of Belleville, brother of the bride; Daniel Bardon of Wyandotte, cousin of the bridegroom; and Ronald Jurewicz of Ypsilanti.

A corsage of eucharis lilies was pinned to the yellow and white knit dress which the bride's mother wore for the wedding. In the evening she changed to a mint green chiffon gown in toe-touching length. For her son's marriage, Mrs. Johnson chose a rose-colored knit dress and for the reception donned an orchid and blue floral print gown with a companion coat. She, too, was presented with a corsage of eucharis lilies.

The Romulus Progressive Club was reserved for the wedding breakfast attended by some 135 relatives and friends after the ceremony. The 7:30 p.m. reception there included 475 guests.

Both Debbie and Neil are Belleville High School graduates. The new Mrs. Johnson is currently enrolled at Cleary College while working at T.O.P. Inc. of Plymouth. Her husband is an employee of Draw-Tite Co. of Belleville.

The rehearsal party was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Evanski home on Hoeft Road.

BPW members represent club at convention

Three thousand women from all parts of the United States, including Belleville, Mich., arrived in Chicago, Ill. this week for the 1974 National Convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, July 21-25. Representing the group's 170,000 members, delegates are meeting at the Conrad Hilton Hotel to discuss such subjects as the Equal Rights Amendment, the United Nations and International Women's Year and other topics of national and international concern.

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) is being represented by Helen White, delegate, and Beatrice Boldt, alternate. Of special interest to Michigan women was the convention tribute to Home mortgages usually are written for terms of 20, 25 or 30 years, but on average they're paid off in less than seven years.

Donna Curry marries

Montego Bay is site of 10-day honeymoon

In a single ring ceremony at Temple Israel in Detroit, Donna J. Curry became the bride of Carter J. Ross. The newlyweds spent a 10-day honeymoon at Montego Bay in Jamaica before taking up residence at 1660 N. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

Rabbi Syme heard the couple's nuptial vows with Cantor Orbach providing music for the June ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Curry of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ross of Southfield are parents of the young couple.

FOR HER wedding day Donna chose a toe-touching gown of ivory chiffon crepe, the bodice of the jacketed dress being made of Alencon lace with a little buttoned mandarin collar.

Her waist-length veil was made of matching lace and her bridal bouquet was comprised of two white orchids, pink rosebuds and ivy in a cascade design. She also carried a white Bible, a gift from her sister, Alyce in California, who was unable to attend the wedding.

Ardyth Curry of Ypsilanti as her sister's honor attendant wore a sky blue formal-length gown and matching picture hat. The white basket she held was filled with a mixture of garden flowers.

Don Ross of Chicago was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Curry wore for her daughter's wedding a long gown of chiffon over taffeta in a pastel floral print. Mrs. Ross, the bridegroom's mother, donned a floor-length gown of multi-print sheer crepe. Both added matching accessories to their dresses and wore pink rosebud hairpieces.

THE CURRYS held an open house reception for 150 guests at their Robbe Road home. A cocktail buffet reception was held this past Saturday at the newlyweds' home in Chicago for friends, relatives and business associates. The Currys and Rosses attended as did Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Neely of Belleville.

The new Mrs. Ross earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and her master's degree in education from Wayne State and De Paul Universities. An affiliate of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority, she is currently on the staff of Winnetka Public Schools and North Shore Country Day School in Winnetka, Ill.

Her husband received his mechanical engineering degree from the University of Michigan and also attended Detroit Institute of Technology. A member of Phi Sigma Delta Fraternity, he is employed at Mid-Wesco Enterprise in Chicago.

Swantek-Willerer vows read in Detroit church

A 12-day honeymoon in Hawaii followed the recent marriage of Anita Jeannine Willerer of Detroit and Ronald Keith Swantek of New Boston. The young couple exchanged wedding bands and vows in a June 28 ceremony at Our Lady Gate of Heaven Church in Detroit with some 200 guests in attendance.

The Rev. James De Witt presided at the 6 p.m. nuptials at which Mrs. Betty Rosevie was soloist and Mrs. Frye organist.

The ceremony united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas M. Willerer of Detroit and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin L. Swantek of 19049 Hannan Rd., New Boston.

FOR the occasion the altar was adorned with bouquets of pink and white carnations and greenery.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the bride appeared in an ivory satin gown styled with a squared illusion neckline and long chiffon sleeves with lace inserts at the elbow. The dress, made and presented to the bride by a friend, Mrs. Elizabeth Markey, was hand-embroidered with seed pearls.

Little pink flowers and an ivory satin bow accented the lace Camellot cap which held the bride's ivory silk illusion veil. A bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis, pink rosebuds and gypsophalia completed her bridal finery.

Attending the bride were Mallory Nagle of Pine Lake, the maid of honor, and Marie Johnston of Ohio; Pat Sopo of Dearborn; Gerie Jarvey of E. Detroit and Mary Ann Merrill, a sister from Atlanta, Ga.

Identically dressed, they wore gowns of pink spring voile fashioned with puffed sleeves, square necklines and deep flounces at the hemline. They wore circlets of fresh flowers in their hair to match the pink rosebuds, carnations and gypsophalia which filled the white baskets they carried.

RONALD D. PICHAN of Waterford and Romulus, served as best man. Groomsmen were Ned Timmons of Oak Park, Donald Swantek, a brother from Lexington, Ky., and James Bishop of Ypsilanti. Ushers were Larry Jarvey of E. Detroit and Lee Nagle of Pine Lake.

The reception which followed took place at Bonnie Brook Country Club in Detroit with 215 guests attending. Mrs. Willerer, the bride's mother, received in a lime green chiffon gown embroidered at the neck, waist and wrists. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear a multi-floral print on yellow chiffon with a jewel neckline. Both were presented with corsages of royal white orchids.

A graduate of St. Mary's of Redford High School, the new Mrs. Swantek works as a reservationist for American Airlines in Detroit. Her husband, who is a teacher, works during the summer as assistant manager of the pool at Lower Huron Metro Park. He graduated from Huron High School and attended Michigan State University (where he affiliated with Theta Delta Chi Fraternity) and Eastern Michigan University.

The newlyweds are making their home at 19069 Hannan Rd., New Boston.

The bridegroom's parents played host at the rehearsal dinner which was held at the Colonial House in Taylor.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

HAROLD REDISKI, HAROLD REDISKI, JR. - DIRECTORS

Did you ever wonder how the Christian flag, seen in churches, had its origin? A speaker engaged for a "rally service" in the Brighton Chapel in Coney Island, N.Y., failed to appear on time on Sept. 26, 1897. Mr. Charles C. Overton, superintendent of the church school, substituted for the speaker and unexpectedly began to talk about the American flag. Suddenly, he envisioned a flag for the church; a flag unrestricted by geographical or creedal boundaries; a flag to remind all people of their allegiance to God. Extemporaneously, on the spur of the moment, he described a Christian flag as he envisioned it. He pictured a field of white, signifying purity, innocence and peace; in the corner a union of deep blue for a symbol of faith, trust and sincerity - with a Latin cross emblazoned in red.

The following Sunday, the Christian flag was draped for the first time in the chancel of the Brighton Chapel. It was made by Mr. Annin, a flag manufacturer who did much to secure its adoption by churches. It's use spread rapidly throughout the U.S. and today is seen throughout the world. Watch for next week's column which will relate how the pledge of allegiance to the Christian flag originated.

Food poisoning can be prevented

"Proper handling of picnic foods prevents food poisoning," says Marilyn Mook, nutrition specialist for Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service.

Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold, because microorganisms causing food poisoning grow between 40 and 140 degrees. Miss Mook suggests food be kept chilled in a styrofoam ice chest until the last minute.

Don't use jello, meat salads and products containing milk and eggs. Instead, Miss Mook recommends bringing fresh fruit, carrots, celery and canned pudding (not homemade). If you bring a tossed salad or coleslaw, keep the dressing in a separate container under ice and mix at the last minute. Keep hot dogs, hamburgers and chicken under ice. Raw chicken may contain salmonella, so do not put cooked chicken on the platter that held the raw chicken, Miss Mook recommends.

Be sure dropped flatware is washed thoroughly before used.

According to Miss Mook, "Food poisoning won't be a problem if you follow the same precautions outside that you use inside in preparing meals."

Planning for harvest can improve gardens

Most amateur gardeners in Western Wayne County probably are congratulating themselves on how green their gardens grow while overlooking a few activities that should be undertaken now to guarantee a healthy and productive food source.

At the midway point in the summer months, now is the time to consider fall edibles that should be planted during July, to add a little mulch to the garden to help control weeds and to start preparing for the canning season.

Garden mulching can help keep local gardens free of unsightly weeds while protecting the crops from mud splatters during rain fall and conserving the nutrients and maintaining the temperatures of the soil.

WITH WARM DRY weather plaguing the area, amateur gardeners also need know what is the right amount of water for garden crops without water logging the roots.

Beating the high cost of store-bought food items is a good reason for gardens whether in the backyard or communal garden plots, but little or too much water can put a damper on the best of intentions as far as gardens are concerned.

Gardeners also should begin checking into good harvesting techniques. An early picking of one crop sometimes can guarantee a yield of twice of what might have been expected from the plant, opening up the possibility of home canned vegetables throughout the winter months.

Only expert gardeners may know that frequent harvesting of such plants as tomatoes, squash and beans can provide with more and larger crops throughout the summer and a portion of the fall season.

HOWEVER, TO enjoy the fruits of your labor, gardeners should take advantage of sprays to prevent insect damage to the edibles.

Weekly pesticide sprayings throughout the growing season can help ward off the hungry insects and prevent bacterial diseases from destroying a garden.

Now also is the time for kitchen enthusiasts to begin checking into the proper techniques for canning the expectant produce.

A well-prepared cook can rush the edibles from the garden to the pantry shelves with much of the nutrition still preserved in the vegetables.

CROPS NEGLECTED after picking are prone to losing their flavor and vitamin content, but quick preserving after picking can stock the home's shelves with vegetables at their peak of freshness.

Checking into the various methods of canning and freezing garden produce can prepare even the most inexperienced cook for the harvest season while avoiding spoilage after preparation.

Knowing the yield of the crop also can help cooks determine how much of additives will be needed in the canning and freezing. Such knowledge also can help avoid overstocking even the smallest of freezers or pantries.

Obviously, the mid-summer is not the time to rest on the laurels of having a green garden. Planning, and preparation for the harvest and for the fall growing season, can help guarantee an even better garden than might be expected.

KNOWING THE CROPS and their needs can help a gardener maintain his "cabbage patch" and keep hungry insects from enjoying a meal among his munchy edibles.

The password for July among gardeners, therefore, is preparation, and he who plans ahead will more than enjoy the produce of his labor.

HOW GREEN IT GROWS — Local Western Wayne County residents are taking advantage of a warm spell to keep their gardens in tip-top shape and to begin preparations for the midsummer planting of fall crops. They also are using the sunshine to give the edibles protection against hungry bugs and to encourage plant growth. — Enterprise-Roman photo.

Midsummer is a planting time

Some gardeners may believe the planting season was over in May after the summer crops were rooted. However, some vegetables that grow best in cool temperatures can be planted now for the fall harvest.

According to horticulturists at Michigan State University, such vegetables as peas, cabbage, lettuce and beans can be planted throughout July and August.

The wise farmer should select seeds suited for Michigan soils and which are quick maturing. Following seed packet directions and watering in the seed, can speed up plant germination.

IF THE SOIL has been well fertilized during the spring planting, additives may not be needed to supplement natural soil nutrients. However, soil with a low fertility will need fertilizer, applied after the plant seedling has begun to grow.

Gardeners should check into vegetables recommended for the fall harvest. Specialists recommend 17 varieties of edibles for midsummer planting, ranging from snap beans to broccoli to kohlrabi.

HUNGRY VISITOR — Healthy cabbage not only is a savory edible for Western Wayne County residents, but also for hungry visitors — insects. A recent agricultural experiment proved that crops need more than just weeding to make it from the garden to the table intact. An unprotected head of cabbage served as a tasty home for insects, who left very little of the plant untouched.

Insecticides do protect against hungry pests

If spraying for each individual insect is more time and effort than you want to put into a garden this year, a Michigan State University entomologist suggests an all-purpose spray.

Begin spraying once a week with a fungicide and/or bactericide, plus one or more insecticides and continue throughout the growing season. Heed cautions and limitations on use close to harvest. Spray both the top and underside of the leaves until the liquid runs off.

The entomologist suggests an all-purpose spray including, in the wettable powder (WP), form, a fungicide, Maneb, one and one-half tablespoons of 80 per cent WP; a bactericide, fixed copper, two tablespoons of 53 per cent WP. An insecticide combination of Malathion, five tablespoons of 25 per cent WP and Methoxychlor, two tablespoons of 50 per cent WP; Rotenone, two tablespoons of 4-5 per cent WP and Methoxychlor, two tablespoons of 50 per cent WP; or Malathion alone, five tablespoons of 25 per cent WP; or Rotenone alone, two tablespoons of 5 per cent WP should be added.

The fixed copper is used primarily to control bacterial diseases of tomatoes, peppers, beans, cucumbers and cabbage and mildews on spinach and cabbage. It may be omitted on other vegetables. Tri-Basic Copper sulfate, Copper A, Basicop, Ortho Copper, Kodide 101 and Copper Oxide are trade names for fixed copper.

If using an emulsifiable concentrate (EC) for the insecticide, Malathion, two teaspoons of 50 per cent EC and Methoxychlor, four teaspoons of 25 per cent EC; Malathion alone, two teaspoons of 50 per cent EC; or Pyrethrum alone, one teaspoon of 1 per cent EC, are recommended.

Mulching can keep weeds under control in gardens

The gardening book says "mulch," so you mulch. But do you know why?

"Mulching makes gardening easier by helping to keep down the weeds," said a horticulture specialist. "It also conserves soil moisture, prevents soil puddling, keeps your crops free of mud splatters and helps maintain uniform soil temperatures." Organic mulches like decomposed sawdust, grass clippings, straw and barnyard wastes also add nutrients to the soil.

For plants grown in hills or spaced fairly far apart, you can use black plastic as a mulch. It should not be used with cool season crops like broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage or peas, however, unless it is covered with sawdust or other light-colored material that will reflect rather than absorb light and heat.

If the soil in your garden needs improving, organic mulches are your best bet. Just be sure the material isn't full of weed seeds. After all, one of the reasons for mulching is to eliminate weeds, not to plant more of them.

When you use organic materials for mulch, use only those already decomposed. Fresh straw, chopped corn-cobs, sawdust or grass clippings will decompose in the garden, but in doing so they will tie up the nitrogen in the soil. Thus they actually will be robbing vegetables and flowers of that necessary nutrient.

If fresh organic mulches are your only choice, add some nitrogen fertilizer. One-half pound of ammonium sulfate or one-third pound of ammonium nitrate per 100 square feet should provide adequate nitrogen. You also can use one pound of a complete fertilizer per 100 square feet.

Vegetables can be source of vitamin

Most new gardeners will be growing vegetables in 1974 because they have been motivated by the high cost of living. Others will do it because that's the only way to enjoy fresh home-grown flavor. Vegetables also are the most important source of vitamins, and better tasting than any vitamin pill.

The principal nutrients for which vegetables are best known are iron, vitamin A, vitamin C, riboflavin and carbohydrates.

Vitamin A, as such, is not found in plants, but there are substances known as provitamin A that are converted to vitamin A by the body. Dark green and deep yellow vegetables are excellent sources of provitamin A. Examples are spinach, broccoli, chard, kale, turnip greens, carrots, winter squash, cantaloupes and pumpkins. Vitamin A helps keep skin healthy, promotes growth and helps keep the linings of your mouth, nose, throat and digestive healthy.

VITAMIN B is really a complex of nutrients such as riboflavin, found in leafy green vegetables, thiamine, found in dried peas and beans; and niacin, found in fresh peas and beans. Without these three nutrients all kinds of horrible things can happen—lack of niacin will damage your digestive tract and nervous system; lack of thiamine will prevent body cells from obtaining energy from food and cause poor appetite; while lack of riboflavin can damage eyes and skin.

Harvest schedule offers tasty food

Harvesting your home vegetable garden at just the right time is the key to best quality.

The "peak of perfection" varies from crop to crop. Some crops are best when they are harvested before they mature completely: snap beans, cucumbers, okra and peas, for instance. Tomatoes, eggplant, can-taloupe and watermelon, among others, should be harvested in the mature stage. To encourage your garden to produce more vegetables, harvest tomatoes, squash, peppers, beans, okra, cucumbers and eggplant frequently. You not only will get more vegetables, but crops with better size and quality.

Cucumber plants, for example, produce only five or six cucumbers, if they are left on the plant until they turn yellow. If you pick the immature cucumbers, a plant will produce 20 to 30.

A plant will continue to produce only if you pick the crop carefully and do not damage the parent plant. Snap the fruit off carefully by hand or snip it off with scissors.

Don't neglect the vegetables after they are picked, either. Just picked vegetables are at their peak in flavor and vitamin content and should be eaten or preserved as soon as possible after picking.

Yield saves space

Knowing how many pounds of a certain crop will produce a specified amount of canned or frozen food is a trick that can help home canning enthusiasts prepare room in freezers and pantries for the summer harvest.

According to agriculturists, some vegetables require from one to six pounds of produce to make one quart of canned food while frozen foods require can use up to 32 pounds of vegetables to make 8 quarts. Snap beans require the least amount of produce, 1½ to 2½ pounds, for canning, and one bushel of 30 pounds to produce 15 to 24 quarts. Also in the bean family, lima beans require three to five pounds for canning and 32 pounds for 6 to 8 quarts of frozen food.

Both sweet corn and peas require three to six pounds for canning while needing 35 to 30 pounds for 7 to 8 and 6 to 7 quarts respectively for freezing.

Canning beets will require 2 to 3½ pounds of produce while freezing 52 pounds of the vegetable will yield more than 17 quarts of frozen food. Freezing 24 pounds of asparagus will yield more than seven quarts of food while 2½ to 4½ pounds in the canning process will produce only one quart.

Both carrots and sweet potatoes require two to six pounds of produce for canning while the freezing process requires 50 pounds for 16 to 24 quarts of the former.

Finally, tomatoes, a popular vegetable, uses 2½ to 3½ pounds of meat for canning. No requirements are available for freezing.

Fruits can be canned

Vegetables aren't the only produce that can be canned or frozen for enjoyment throughout the winter months. Western Wayne County residents are enjoying a wide variety of fresh fruits available in stores and a farm stands that can be stored for unseasonal dining delights.

One such crop is pears which not only can be packaged for consumption but also dried for eating later.

Pears picked green can offer a smooth texture when ripened later and provide a tasty meat for home food preparation. Such varieties as Bartlett, Anjou, Clapp and Flemish Beauty are delicious for eating fresh and great for canning. A few varieties are not suitable for preserving but can be cooked or pickled.

In preparing pears, home canners should remember that three or four medium pears will equal about one pound, yielding about two cups of sliced or diced meat. From two to 2½ pounds will make one quart of canned pears while about one bushel or 50 pounds will produce 20 to 25 quarts of the juicy fruit.

The best way for freezing pears is to pick well ripened fruit that is firm and not hard or gritty. Pears should be peeled, cored and quartered before being cooked for one to two minutes in a 40 per cent sugar syrup. The syrup is made by adding three cups of sugar for every four cups of water.

Allow the cooked pears to cool before placing in containers. Cover the fruit with the syrup and add ¼ teaspoon of crystalline ascorbic acid to each quart for a better product.

Pears for canning also should be peeled, cored and quartered. For raw packing the diced pears should be placed in sterilized jars and covered with a boiling syrup.

In hot packing the pears should be heated in a hot syrup before being placed in jars.

HARVEST TIME — Picking tomatoes carefully can guarantee preservation of the plant and an increased productive cycle. A popular vegetable among gardeners in Western Wayne County, tomatoes need not be set aside for fresh salads. With a little creative cookery, fresh tomatoes can be preserved for use throughout the winter months.

Vegetables are canner's best

With today's cost of food so high there is more reason than ever to consider canning garden-fresh vegetables.

Some of the most worthwhile vegetables to can include tomatoes, beans, beets, broccoli, brussels sprouts, carrots, cauliflower, peas, pepper and zucchini squash.

The most widely canned vegetables are tomatoes and beans. Here are some hints on canning these successfully. CHOOSE ONLY fresh, firm ripe tomatoes. Those with decayed spots or cracks are unfit for canning. Wash and drain enough tomatoes for one canner load. Place tomatoes in a wire basket or cheesecloth and submerge in boiling water about ½ minute to loosen skins.

Then dip into cold water and drain. Next cut out all cores, remove skins and trim off any green spots. Cut tomatoes into quarters or leave whole.

Fill hot canning jars, adding 1 teaspoon of salt per quart, and filling air spaces with juice. Run a table knife between tomatoes and sides of jar to release any air bubbles. Wipe the mouth clean, then seal tightly with lid and screw band.

As each jar is filled stand it in a canner of hot water covering jars 1 to 2 inches. Place cover on canner, bring to boil and leave for 45 minutes in the case of quart jars (35 minutes for pints).

REMOVE jars from canner, and let cool for 12 hours. To test for a successful seal remove the screw band, and press down in the center of the lid. If lid stays depressed, jar is sealed. Store the jars, without the bands, in a cool, dark place.

Thoroughly wash freshly gathered beans, which must be young, tender and crisp, then drain. Trim the ends, remove any strings, and cut beans into pieces. Cover the beans with boiling water and boil for 5 minutes, or pack raw into a heated pint or quart jar. Add 1 teaspoon of salt per quart, and cover beans with boiling water. Wipe top of jar clean, then seal with lid and screw band.

Put jars into a steam-pressure canner containing two-thirds inches of hot water, place canner over heat, and lock cover. Leave canner vent open to allow steam to escape for 10 minutes, then close vent. Keep pressure steady at 10 pounds for 25 minutes in the case of quarts (20 minutes for pints). Stand jars to cool for 12 hours, and test for a successful seal by removing the screw band and pressing down in the center of the lid. If lid stays depressed, jar is sealed.

Store jars without the bands in a cool dry place. Before tasting, bring the beans to a boil and simmer for ten minutes.

READY TO CAN — Cleaning the vegetable thoroughly before beginning the canning process can guarantee that no unsavory items get mixed in with the finished product. An extra twist to ring top jars also can protect prepared beans and tomatoes from spoilage during storage.

Watering is password in green garden plants

Beginning gardeners often are frustrated by instructions to give their gardens "enough" water. Just how much is "enough?"

During dry periods between rains, you should water your garden once a week so that the soil is thoroughly moistened to a depth of about six inches.

One thorough soaking is better than several light sprinklings. Light watering encourages plants to form undesirably shallow root systems.

Sprinkler or soaker hoses, overhead sprinkler heads and hand watering are common ways to water home gardens. A more involved method is trickle irrigation, which is carried out through a set of plastic pipes that carry water along the ground to your plants.

Too much water can cause as much harm to garden plants as too little water. Watering too often or locating your garden in a poorly drained area can lead to wilting, yellowing of plant foliage, reduced vigor and death.

Plants that are always wet also are more prone to disease.

GAME CONCENTRATION — Two Sumpter Township youngsters, Kevin Williams (left) and Leonardo McClain, are deep in concentration as they play croquet in the township's recreational site at Sumpter and Wear roads. Township officials have installed various recreational facilities at the 10-acre park for the enjoyment of township residents. Included in the development are baseball diamonds, swings, slides, picnic tables and game facilities. — Enterprise-Roman photo.

Four candidates vie for spots in Sumpter treasurer's voting

Three Democrats, including an incumbent, and one Republican are seeking their parties' nominations as Sumpter Township treasurer in the Aug. 6 primary election. Incumbent Bertram J. Bradley of 18360 Martinsville Rd. is seeking another two-year.

He is being opposed by Democrats Wanda Lea Elden, 34, and Louis P. Banotai, 53. SEEKING THE treasurer post on the Republican ticket and unopposed is Bruce G. Merritt, 31.

Mrs. Wanda, former secretary of Sumpter Township Supervisor Robert Marble, has been a community resident for eight years. She and her husband, Lawrence, are the parents of four children.

She attended Taylor High School and University of Michigan, and presently is employed as secretary at St. Anthony's Catholic School in Belleville. She has discharged by Marble after filing her nominating petitions for treasurer.

She also served a deputy clerk of Sumpter Township and was elected to the St. Anthony school board. She is a member of the Sumpter Democratic Club and Sumpter Homeowners Association.

MRS. ELDEN said she is qualified for the job because of her employment as deputy clerk and as assistant to the supervisor.

"I have many opinions and objections to the way tax dollars are being wasted," she added.

Banotai, who lives at 20323 Elwell Rd., was one of four township officials recalled in 1972. He has been a community member for 40 years. He and his wife, Virginia, are the parents of two children.

He attended Belleville High School and Henry Ford Apprentice School. He is a tool-die maker at Ford Motor Co. He was elected a township treasurer in 1960 and township trustee in 1970 until the recall.

BANOTAI HELD the presidency of the Sumpter Democratic Club as well as a club trustee.

"My previous experience as a township official will help in bringing into the township various needed improvement programs," Banotai said.

Merritt, the sole Republican candidate, has lived in the community for 31 years. He and his wife, Andrea, are the parents of one child. He attended Lincoln High School and Cleary College in Ypsilanti.

Merritt presently is employed at the Detroit Metropolitan Airport as a fire fighter and rescue squad member. He made an unsuccessful bid for trustee in 1972.

"I FEEL THAT this township should be run by the people for the people who share their views," he said. "I feel that the people of Sumpter deserve a real opportunity to select their candidates who are concerned in the future of the township." Incumbent Treasurer Bradley was not available for comment on his candidacy.

Sumpter medical center to move to new facility

The construction of a permanent family medical center in Sumpter Township is assured, following the receipt by the Oakwood Hospital of Dearborn of a Kresge Foundation grant of $225,000.

The grant will enable the hospital to build permanent facilities to house for the Sumpter Family Practice Center, now operated by the hospital in two connecting mobile homes at 24560 Sumpter Rd.

The proposed new center will be a one-story structure near Willis and Sumpter roads. It will provide 5,600 square feet of space for examinations and treatment of ambulatory patients.

The center will provide no patient beds. Construction of the center will be completed by early 1975.

"With construction of the new family practice center, some 10,000 persons in this medically deprived area will have a facility that will come closer to meeting their health care needs," said Dr. E. M. Wakeman, associate director of medical education and family practice at Oakwood Hospital.

Dr. Wakeman added that, at present, the center's three examination rooms are strained in accommodating 500 patients per month.

"With the 21 examination and consultation rooms in the new building, the center eventually will be handling more than 1,500 visitors a month," he said.

In addition to providing continuous medical care on a family basis to Sumpter residents who previously had no doctor, the center offers an unusual training facility for family practice physicians of Oakwood Hospital.

Dems, Republicans pair off in trustees race

The Aug. 6 primary election in Van Buren Township will have four Republicans, including two incumbents, and four Democrats competing for two 4-year terms on the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees.

Seeking new terms are Republican incumbents Dominick W. Blend, 69, and Stephen J. Kuchta Jr., 44. Their Republican opponents are Ralph A. Gillingham Sr., 45; and Arthur F. Surratt, 44. Democratic party candidates are Jerry Maton of 12175 Beckley St., Thomas M. Kelly of 21 Locust St., George Roberts, 50, of 8701-56 Bellevue Rd., Belleville; and Joseph W. Mathews of 46150 Bemis Rd.

Running unopposed on the Republican ticket for constable is George A. Heifner Jr. of 41527 Edison Lake Rd., who is civil defense director for the township.

Blend, who resides at 11696 Juniper Dr., has been a community resident for 12 years. His wife, Madelyn, is the owner of Madelyn's Beauty Shop in Belleville.

He attended high school in Harris, Iowa, and studied at Iowa State University and Iowa State Teachers College. He holds a doctor of Laws degree from Athens College in Athens, Ala. He is a retired executive from Calumet and Hecla Inc., where he was a director and vice-president of operations.

Blend was first elected trustee in 1970. He currently is the township police commissioner and director and vice-president of the Belv Community Hospital. He also has served as a director of several companies.

"In the 1970 election I decided to run for trustee and I was elected to that office as a member of the Gollwitzer team. At that time, I felt that the residents badly needed a change in Van Buren Township government. My past four years experience has demonstrated to me that the change made was certainly in order," he said. "Real progress has been made over the past four years, but much remains to be done. I would like to lend whatever talent I may have to the completion of that job."

He added that as a result of spending 40 successful and enlightening years in the fields of business management, community relations and education, in addition to four years as trustee, makes him "eminently qualified" to serve another term.

Kuchta, who lives at 16001 Haggerty Rd., Van Buren Township, has been an area resident for 37 years. He and his wife, Eileen, are the parents of three children. He attended the Van Buren schools, Eastern Michigan University, USAF Command and Staff School and Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

He presently is employed at Sentry Insurance Co., Detroit. Kuchta was first appointed to the township board of trustees to serve the two remaining years of the 4-year term of Patricia Cullin who resigned to run for township clerk in 1972.

He is a member of the Van Buren Community Development Committee and the Van Buren Planning Commission. He is active in the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce and National Guard Association of Michigan and the Air Force Association.

Kuchta currently is assigned to the 191st Fighter Interceptor Group, Aerospace Defense Command, Michigan Air National Guard, Selfridge.

ANG Base as an executive officer.

"I personally feel that citizens of a community must give to the community as well as take," he said. "I have taken for more than 30 years and now have a vested interest in Van Buren Township. I have great pride in the community and desire to assist in the continued direction of its growth and development."

He added that Air Force bases are similar to municipalities and that his past and present military experience has been in base support areas.

"I have served four years as a base commander and am well versed in fire and law enforcement requirements, as well as the need for financial and master planning. I believe in a viable Van Buren and desire to continue to serve the community."

Gillingham, who lives at 9864 Hamilton, Belleville, has resided in the community for more than three years. He and his wife, Barbara, are the parents of four children.

He attended Sandusky High School in Sandusky, Ohio and presently is employed by Kirby of Washtenaw Inc., as personnel and general manager and assistant to the president of the corporation. Gillingham made an unsuccessful try for trustee in 1972.

He is active in the Foster Parent Group, Catholic Social Services of Wayne County and presently is president of the Foster Parent Group.

"I have been dealing with the common ordinary citizens now for more than 15 years," he said. "I have received an education of and about people that all the regular school work would never be able to teach. Some of the complaints that people have are good solid complaints. Some are not. I feel that I would be able to separate them and give the right answers as a township trustee."

Gillingham, who resides in

Van Buren Estates Subdivision, said that in his opinion, present issues include weekly trash pickups in the subdivision and recreation, involving the operation of Van Buren Park.

Surratt lives at 8295 Marlowe Rd., Belleville. He and his wife, Marion Jean, are the parents of one child. He has been in the community for 18 years and presently is a township constable.

He attended high school in Carlisle, Ark. He currently is employed as truck driver for the Marathon Oil Service in Taylor. He also is serving on the Van Buren Township Zoning Board of Appeals.

Surratt, who is making his first bid for trusteeship said his contacts have reported dissatisfaction with present township administration.

George Roberts, who resides at 8701-56 Bellevue Rd., Belleville, has been a community resident for 27 years. He and his wife, Irene, are the parents of four children. He attended Enterprise High School in Brookhaven, Miss. He is self-employed as a painter and decorator.

Roberts, who is making his first bid for elective office, has been active in the Belleville-Van Buren Little League as a manager for six years, and as a member of the Little League's board of directors for 16 years; Belleville Archery Club, Progressive Archery Club, Michigan State Archery Association and Michigan Bow Hunters.

Candidate questionnaires requesting biographical material and qualifications Maton, Kelly and Mathews sent to Democratic candidates were not returned.

Senior citizens to get absentee ballot forms

Applications for absentee ballots are being distributed this week to Van Buren Township senior citizens by personnel in the Van Buren Township clerk's office.

The applications are being sent to approximately 600 senior citizens in accordance with state election laws, which require that anyone 62 years of age or older may vote by absentee ballot, said Township Clerk Patricia Cullin.

A communication accompanying the application for absentee ballots states that if the senior citizen chooses to vote by absentee ballot, the application, after being signed with their respective name and address, should be returned to the clerk's office, 46425 Tyler Rd., Van Buren Township.

ACCORDING TO MRS. CULLIN, senior citizens still can vote by going to the polls, rather than signing the application. The new procedure is another means of assisting senior citizens, she added.

The senior citizens also were reminded to vote straight democratic or straight republican in the primary.

An informational pamphlet, entitled "voting is Easy," prepared by Mrs. Cullin, also is available to township voters.

The pamphlet contains general and pertinent information both the August primary and November general elections, registration data and election deadlines.

THE TOWNSHIP now has a total registration of 6,350 eligible voters for the August primary, Mrs. Cullin said.

The registration county by precincts as of July 1, were precinct one, 670 voters; precinct two, 549; precinct three, 420; precinct four, 762; precinct five, 844; precinct six, 657; precinct seven, 365; precinct eight, 753; precinct nine, 698, and precinct ten, 633.

Panel studies zoning

A public hearing before the Van Buren Township Planning Commission on a rezoning request to permit the construction of a proposed Big Boy Restaurant in the township brought no area opposition.

The planning commission took the rezoning request under study and is scheduled to announce its decision at its Aug. 7 meeting.

The restaurant is slated for a 2-lot land parcel located on Belleville Road north of I-94. The land site presently is zoned single family. The petition seeks a change to general business.

Three try for supervisor post in Van Buren

Incumbent Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer, a Republican, is running unopposed nomination for a third 2-year term in the Aug. 6 primary election.

Vying for Democratic nod are Martin W. Birk, 59, and Peter M. Kress, 52.

Gollwitzer, who resides at 44345 Harmony Lane, has been a community resident for 14 years. He and his wife, Margaret, are the parents of two children.

GOLLWITZER ATTENDED high school in Ithaca, Mich., Grand Rapids Central, Michigan State University and Eastern Michigan University. He holds bachelor of science and master of science degrees in mechanical engineering.

He was elected township supervisor in 1970. He has been active in Rotary International, the Southeastern Michigan Council of Regional Development, Huron Valley Watershed's executive committee, Michigan Assessors Association and the Wayne County Supervisors Association.

He also held positions of secretary and vice president of the local Rotary club.

"I am seeking re-election because I believe I have been able to do much for the community and that there still is a lot I can still do," Gollwitzer said.

He added that he "presently is dealing with the problems of this office."

"I KNOW what the problems are and how to handle them," he said. "My acquaintance with local, county and state officials is helpful. My certification by the state as an assessor is beneficial to the community."

"I do not see issue-only problems. Presumably the idea of an 'issue' is that there is a controversy over a problem. If someone has a better idea for solving any of the problems, I would favor letting him do it his way. There will be plenty of problems left for me. However, the answer to most problems is money and he should include how to get it."

On the proposed Willow Run Airport enlargement and scheduled loss of the Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol services, Gollwitzer said: "I feel it will not be enlarged to the degree that has been proposed, if the township keeps active on it. The community must stay alert on this for many years to come. Apathy and a false sense of security are its enemies."

"Residents also must watch for a return of county power in local government as a means to obtain its ends."

"THE LOSS OF the sheriff's road patrol, the last valuable service residents get as a township, is worth about three additional mils on the tax rolls. The township operates on one mill as it stands."

"Virtually anything the county does for the township it does in its expensive way and then only if the township furnishes the money. The community has been fighting to hold the sheriff since early 1971. It is important that it win to make its status as a township worth anything."

Birk, who served as township supervisor from 1957 to 1961, is seeking the Democratic nomination.

He has been a resident of the community for 35 years. Birk and his wife, Bette, are the parents of two children. They live at 6381 Gilmore, Belleville.

Birk, who attended Calumet High School, Cleary College and Jordan College, is employed by Real Estate World as administrator and salesman in the Saline office.

BESIDES BEING a former township supervisor, Birk served on the Wayne County Board of Institutions from 1961 to 1974 and was board chairman from 1968 to 1974.

In seeking the supervisor's post, Birk said: "My 16 years of administrative experience, four as township supervisor, and 12 years of county government qualifies me for the post."

Birk cited his accomplishments while serving as supervisor, which included the initiation of the township's first water and sewer program, the transition of the township from farm to metropolitan status, promoting the joining of the PCHA, equalizing township property assessments, in his qualifications.

Kress, who lives at 13787 Farm Rd., Belleville has been a community resident for 27 years. He and his wife, Lillian, are the parents of six children. He attended Northern High School in Detroit and Michigan State Normal College.

KRESS IS EMPLOYED as a layout inspector at the Wixom plant of Ford Motor Co. He ran unsuccessfully in 1960 for township supervisor.

He is active in the Van Buren-Belleville Democratic Club and the 15th District Democratic Club.

Parties' opposition missing in clerk race

Two women, including an incumbent, are competing for their parties' nomination as Van Buren Township clerk in the Aug. 6 primary election.

Both candidates are unopposed on their respective party tickets.

Incumbent Township Clerk Patricia Cullin, 44, a Republican, is seeking her second 2-year term. She is a former member of the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees serving from 1970-72 and, has worked in various county government positions for eight years.

RUNNING FOR CLERK on the Democratic ticket is newcomer Doreen Craven, 42, an officer in the Van Buren-Belleville Democratic Club.

Mrs. Cullin, who resides at 13375 Lenmore Ave., Van Buren Township, has been a resident of the community for 43 years. She and her husband, H. Cameron, are the parents of four children.

She has attended Belleville High School, Michigan State University, University of Detroit, Henry Ford Community College and Eastern Michigan University.

IN COMMENTING on her re-election bid, Mrs. Cullin said: "I am seeking re-election for many varied reasons. It has been the most satisfying, rewarding and challenging two years I have experienced. Simply and truly, I love my job. To aid all citizens as best I can is my primary and constant goal."

Mrs. Craven, who resides at 11514 Fisher Rd., Belleville, has been a community resident for more than 12 years. She and husband, George, are the parents of four children.

PATRICIA CULLIN

She attended Western High School in Detroit and Eastern Michigan University.

MRS. CRAVEN performs secretarial work for Kelly Services Inc. She is active in the Van Buren-Belleville Democratic Club and the 15th District Democratic Club and as an inspector on the local school election board.

"I am seeking the office of clerk because of my concern and interest in township administration and the people it services," she said. "I feel I am qualified by the nature of my organizational experience"

Blue Boar widens lead

There appears to be no way of catching Blue Boar Inn of the Belleville Softball League this season.

Belleville Teachers have the "best" chance, but they're still five games behind the league pacesetter. Blue Boar boasts a perfect 15-0 record, while Teachers are 10-5.

P.L.A.V. trails at 10-6, followed by the Ducks, Air Cargo, Belleville Jaycees, Belleville Moose and Rogall's Lounge.

In the week's big upset, the Jaycees whipped P.L.A.V., 9-2.

Blue Boar, which needs just two more victories to clinch the championship, smashed Air Cargo, 17-6, and the Ducks, 5-3. Teachers edged P.L.A.V., 5-4, and Rogall's, 15-8.

The Jaycees nipped Rogall's, 11-10.

The Ducks bumped Belleville Moose, 14-6, and Close battles dot Romulus league

Close battles continued last week as the Romulus Ladies Softball League's two divisions struggled for top league positions.

In the West, Kid Power remained unbeaten by trouncing the New Streakers, 25-4. Streakers' Cindy Seward tripled, with Diane Naimore and Bess Lankford each adding two hits.

The Swingers were left on the short end of a 26-4 decision with the Kel-Joys. The losers just couldn't stop the hot bats of Debbie Nieman, Cindy Nixon and Sharon Bogatta, all hitting 4-for-5.

Jan Madaski had a perfect 5-for-5 day.

The Foul Balls edged the Denim Dolls, 9-8, in other league play. Sharon Smith was the top bat for the dolls with one home run and two doubles. Martha Bower and Paulena Bates each contributed two doubles. Kathy Knieding stroked a solo homer

Thinking things over

It's hard to steal a base when you're in this position, but stealing isn't exactly what this area baseball player had in mind. Instead, he's just taking a rest on first base while the opposing pitcher and catcher have a conference on the mound. — Enterprise-Roman photo.

Huron is Romulus 'A' leader

Huron Valley Steel continues to set the pace in the Romulus Men's Softball "A" League.

Huron Valley is 11-2 on the season—a game ahead of Beer Cookers at 9-3. Morgan Manor stands at 8-5 followed by Howard's Dairy Bar, Romulus Hardware, Polka-Dot Party Store, Carpentry by Woodcraft and Romulus City Drugs.

In the B League, Romulus Welding is perfect at 13-0 and appears not to be threatened by second-place Wayne County Sheriff's at 8-4. The remainder of the lineup has McMulen Tool, Beck-Howell, Walter's Bar, Difco Laboratories, Form-Flow and Dannon Milk Products.

In last week's games, Huron Valley defeated City Drugs, 10-0 but lost to Morgan Manor, 7-6. Romulus Welding whipped Difco, 13-1.

Also, Howard's downed Romulus Hardware, 19-11. McMulen Tool bounced Form-Flow, 17-12. Beck-Howell edged Walter's, 10-8, and Morgan Manor downed Polka Dot, 11-2.

In Thursday's games,

McMulen trimmed Beck-Howell, 13-9. Beer Cookers defeated Romulus Hardware, 12-2. Difco Lab beat Sheriff's, 18-16. Woodcraft edged Dairy Bar, 14-13. Polka-Dot defeated City Drugs, 9-8. Morgan nipped Huron Valley, 7-6, and Walter's erased Form-Flow, 11-6.

Brothers snare top spot

Two Belleville brothers walked away with the top two spots in a recent log race held on the Muskegon River in Ewart, Mich.

Eighteen-year-old Dwight Bell captured first place in the race, covering the course in 57 minutes. He was awarded $50 for his aquatic effort.

His brother, Larry, 17, collected $25 for placing second in the contest. He swam the course in a little more than one hour.

Eighteen men and boys took part in the race in which contestants had to swim the course while pushing a log.

The two brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bell of 58 Chaney, Belleville.

Swimmers gather for annual Belleville meet

The Sixteenth Annual Age Group Swimming Meet to be held in the pool at Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville is scheduled for Wednesday, July 24, from 9 a.m. until the completion of the daily events.

There is no entry fee collected and medals will be awarded to first through seventh place finishers in both individual events and relays. There will also be a trophy given for the high-point team and runner-up team.

Mrs. Sally Prior, meet director and president of Michigan Amateur Aquatics, Inc., will be assisted by members of the Michigan Amateur Aquatics, Inc., and the lifeguard staff at Lower Huron Metropark, headed by Mary White of Belleville.

'Walter' tumbles

Walter Hink defeated Campbell Group, 6-3, in Belleville Babe Ruth baseball action.

In other action, Atchison Ford whipped Roberts Brothers, 13-4, behind the pitching of Don Walls and Don Kettlehut. Paul Krystiniak had three hits for Atchison.

GC schedules clinics

The Garden City Parks and Recreation Department will be hosting the second annual college all-star power skating and conditioning clinics for Mites through Bantams.

There will be two sessions, August 19-23 and August 26-30, meeting for one hour per day. Students will be drilled in all aspects of skating. The class sizes are limited and registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. Fee for the clinic is $18.

There will also be a boys' mini hockey clinic to be held the week of August 19-23. This program offers beginners the basics of hockey while helping them to be better skaters.

The Garden City Civic Arena is located on Cherry

Hill just east of Merriman. For further information, call 261-3491.

National's weekend rate of only $8.50 a day, 14¢ a mile left Don Rickles speechless.

©National Car Rental System, Inc. 1974

National Car Rental dared Don Rickles to try to criticize their weekend deal. But how could he criticize National's low rate of $8.50 a day and 14¢ a mile. (You pay for gas.) And that's for a car like a Chevy Monte Carlo. You can pick it up any time after Thursday 6PM. Return it by Monday 6PM to the renting city. All National asks is that you use the car a minimum of two days.

National's low weekend rate. It's so good all Don could say was, "These people are trying to go broke!"

On the riverfront

Sounds of India visit area

Western Wayne County residents who venture to downtown Detroit Friday through Sunday will find the riverfront transformed into the Festival of India.

The free festival, 10th in the summer-long series sponsored by the City of Detroit, will offer free entertainment and a selection of exotic foods. Festival-goers can view demonstrations of traditional yoga exercises, visit fortune-tellers or browse through imported gift items.

THE OPENING ceremony

at 6 p.m. Friday, will feature the festival queen and city officials. There will be folk dances — including a South Indian dance (bharatanatyam) folk songs (tipani), the rhythmic stick dance (raas), a clapping dance (garba) and Indian religious chants.

A fashion parade featuring brides of different States of India—Gujarat, Maharashtra, Bengal and others—will be presented.

Indian food on sale will range from the very hot to the sweet: vegetable, beef and kofta curries, samosas (a pastry mixture of ground beef and vegetables), egg rolls, poori (Indian puffed bread), papad (wafer) and spiced rice polao. Desserts will include jalebi, gulab jamun, halwa and others.

The cultural mini-museum will display handcarved furniture, handpainted brass vases, paintings on dry leaves, embroidery on silk fabrics and dolls of India.

HAND - EMBROIDERED silk saris, jewelry, brassworks, handloomed silk material, artwork, mirror-work and other Indian articles will be displayed in booths.

There will be Indian music all during the festival hours.

The DOT has arranged bus service to the ethnic festivals this year. For information, call 224-1999 weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Concerts highlight soloists

Two special concerts will mark the close of the 1974 Schoolcraft College Music School next Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The Wednesday evening concert will be performed in the Liberal Arts Theatre and will feature solo and chamber performances by students of the Summer Music School.

The Thursday evening concert will be presented by the Schoolcraft College Summer Music School Orchestra in the Upper Level of the Waterman Campus Center. The Orchestra will be under the direction of Richard Saunders, director of the Summer Music School as well as director of Fine Arts at the College.

Featured as soloists with the orchestra will be Kathy Hildebrandt, who will play Strauss' Concerto No. 1 for French Horn and Orchestra, and Ronald Strnad.

The concerts begin at 8:30 p.m. and free to the public.

NEW RELEASE — Charles Bronson (right) shows a group of labor racketeers he means business in a scene from "Mr. Majestyk." The film, which deals with Mexican farm workers, also stars Linda Cristal (rear).

Film industry logs more moviegoers

It seems that Western Wayne County residents along with people across the nation have been going to the movies more often.

Movie theater admissions have taken a spectacular spurt upwards, according to a spokesman for Wayne Amusement Co., Inc.

In 20 major cities across the country ticket sales have jumped by more than 20 per cent this year over the same period in 1973. And they've registered a gain of more than 34 per cent over the figures of three years ago.

THE BOOM especially is evident in a place like Miami, where attendance has soared at double the national average. Based on the current situation, movie house attendance should average 20 million people weekly this year.

Paul Roth, president of the National Association of Theatre Owners—the organization that's spokesman for the vast majority of the country's approximately 15,000 motion picture theaters—attributes the swollen influx of moviegoers to several factors.

For legislators

Bill could establish code of ethics

A bill outlining a code of conduct specifically aimed at regulating the activities of public officials and employees with regard to conflicts of interest in state government has been introduced in the State Legislature.

Rep. Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) recently introduced House Bill 6075 to provide specific penalties for any state, county or local official who violates the state code of ethics created by executive order in 1973.

The proposed legislation would provide a structure for the enforcement of the standards. It is designed carefully not to interfere in any way with the established rights of civil servants under the Michigan Constitution of 1963 or with the validity of state contracts.

It provides for a jail sentence of up to 90 days, a fine of up to $5,000 or both, for violators of the code.

Legislators found in violation of the code also may be censured and relieved of committee assignment, or expelled from office under the proposal outlined in the bill.

In conjunction with that piece of legislation, Owen also has introduced House Bill 6169 aimed at regulating the conduct and activities of public officials and employees, providing for disclosure of economic interests and prescribing powers and duties for the state board of ethics.

The bill would prevent individuals from being members or employees of state regulatory commissions or committees if they are associated with the business or group being regulated.

To accomplish this, legislators and other public officials who are required to take action or make a decision that would affect, directly or indirectly, their financial interest, would have to submit in writing the details of the conflict of interest involved.

So you think you know how much your home is really worth? We know of at least 2 ways you can go wrong. Sell your home at too low a price, some wise guy investor will come along, grab it, then turn around sell it at the proper market value and make a killing. You lose.

Price your home too high and you'll never sell it. We agree that selling your home is bad enough, but NOT selling it...that's even worse. You lose again.

Earl Keim can assess your home at the proper value, then find the people who are genuinely interested. Call us. All you've got to lose in some time, and headaches, arguments, angry prospects.

The Key To Your Future

RELOCATING DOESN'T HAVE TO BE DISLOCATING.

We belong to RELO, a national real estate organization whose job it is to relocate you physically without relocating you mentally.

And this we can do. Through our association with RELO, we can help relocate you to at least 6,500 different communities throughout the country.

All you have to do is contact any one of our offices, and we'll take it from there.

But remember one thing. If we can relocate you from coast to coast with a minimum of woe, imagine what we can do anywhere around Detroit and its environs.
